

Questions To Ask Your Partner Before Opening Up

Ask yourself those questions first and then your partner. Be fully honest.

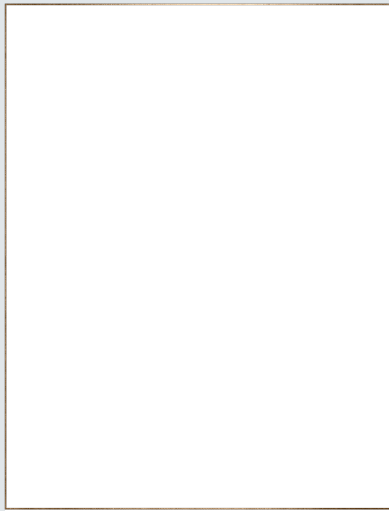

- What does sex mean to you?
- What does it provide you physically, emotionally and spiritually?
- If you were to have sex with someone else, what would it mean to you?
- What turns you on? Or off?
- Do you feel safe exploring with others?
- What things are you comfortable with your partner exploring, and what makes you uncomfortable?
- Do you want to play together or separately?
- What's our safe sex protocol? (use of condoms with other people, STI testing requirements)
- Where do we have sex with other people?
- Is it ok to share our bed or home?
- If I am alone on a date do you want to know the details?
- What is the best way for me to show you my love?

Date Planner

Monday

A large, empty rectangular box with a thin brown border, intended for writing or drawing on Monday.

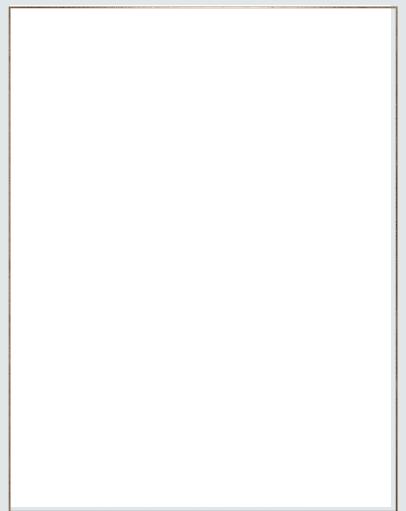

Tuesday

A large, empty rectangular box with a thin brown border, intended for writing or drawing on Tuesday.

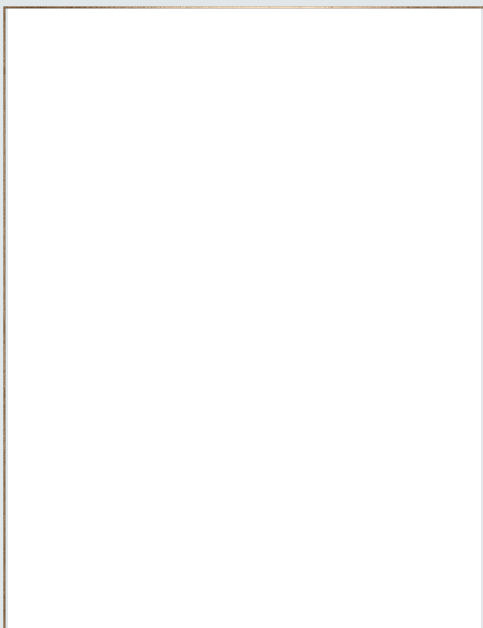

Wednesday

A large, empty rectangular box with a thin brown border, intended for writing or drawing on Wednesday.

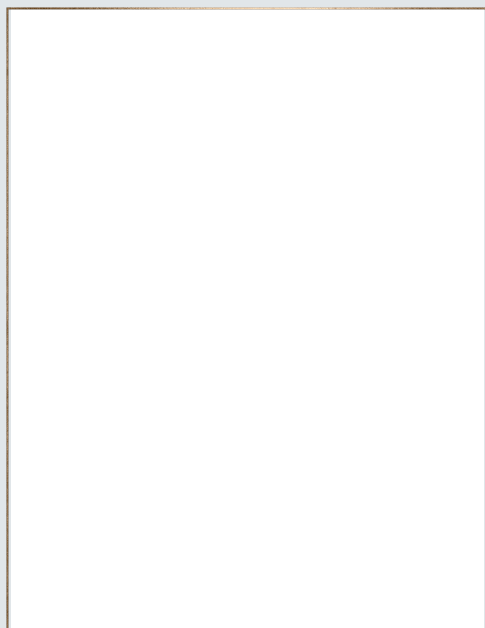

Thursday

A large, empty rectangular box with a thin brown border, intended for writing or drawing on Thursday.

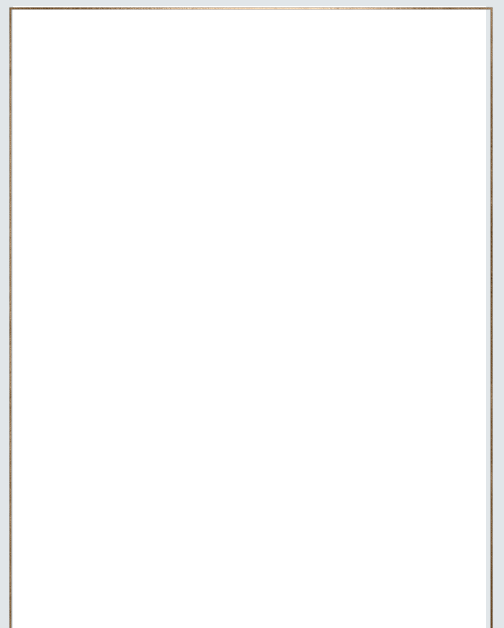

Friday

A large, empty rectangular box with a thin brown border, intended for writing or drawing on Friday.

Saturday

A large, empty rectangular box with a thin brown border, intended for writing or drawing on Saturday.

Sunday

A large, empty rectangular box with a thin brown border, intended for writing or drawing on Sunday.

